vs.	§	No. 3:19-CV-2678-B-BH
	§	No. 3:15-CR-254-B(6)
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,	§
Respondent.	§	Referred to U.S. Magistrate Judge¹

FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATION

Before the Court is the Pro-Se Motion to Voluntarily Dismiss 28 U.S.C. 2255, received on September 18, 2020 (doc. 21). Based on the relevant filings and applicable law, the motion should be GRANTED, and this habeas action should be dismissed.

I. BACKGROUND

Ben P. Gaines (Movant), a federal prisoner, filed a motion to vacate under 28 U.S.C. § 2255 challenging his federal conviction and sentence in case No. 3:15-CR-254-B that was received on November 6, 2019. (See doc. 1.) The respondent is the United States of America (Government). (Id.) By order dated November 12, 2019, the Government was ordered to respond to the motion, and after obtaining extensions of time, it filed an answer on March 16, 2020. (See docs. 4, 7-11.) Movant sought several extensions of time to file a reply, and his deadline to file one was extended until October 1, 2020. (See docs. 12-13, 16-19.) On September 18, 2020, he moved to dismiss his § 2255 action. (See doc. 21.)

The Government was ordered to file a response to the motion within 14 days, stating whether it consented to voluntary dismissal of the § 2255 motion under Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(a)(1)(A)(ii). (See doc. 22.) Pending that response, Movant was expressly cautioned that if he chose to voluntarily dismiss his § 2255 motion, any future § 2255 motion might be barred by the statute of limitations. (See id. at 2-3.) He was specifically advised that if he decided not to withdraw his § 2255 motion, he must file a notice within 14 days stating that he was seeking to proceed with his current motion. (See id.)

¹ By Special Order No. 3-251, this case has been automatically referred for findings, conclusions, and recommendation.

On October 5, 2020, the Government responded that it was unopposed to voluntary dismissal of the § 2255 motion. (See doc. 23.) As of this date, Movant has not filed a notice advising that he has decided to proceed with his current § 2255 motion, or anything else.

II. VOLUNTARY DISMISSAL

Movant moves to dismiss his § 2255 motion. His motion is construed as arising under Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(a).

A. Rule 41(a)(1)

Rule 41(a)(1)(A)(i) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provides that a plaintiff may dismiss his action without a court order by filing a notice of dismissal before the opposing party serves either an answer or a motion for summary judgment. This right to voluntarily dismiss an action before the filing of an answer or summary judgment motion is “absolute and unconditional” and may not be “extinguished or circumscribed by adversary or court.” Int’l Driver Training Inc. v. J-BJRD Inc., 202 F. App’x 714, 715-16 (5th Cir. 2006) (quoting 8 James W. Moore et al., Moore’s Federal Practice, § 41.33[2], at 41-48 (Matthew Bender 3d ed. 2006) and Am. Cyanamid Co. v. McGhee, 317 F.2d 295, 297 (5th Cir. 1963)). A notice of voluntary dismissal under this rule is “self-executing”, and no further court action is required. Id.

Here, the Government had filed an answer to the § 2255 motion at the time Movant sought to dismiss it. Once the opposing party has served either an answer or a motion for summary judgment, the moving party may only voluntarily dismiss his action without a court order by filing a stipulation of dismissal signed by all parties who have appeared. Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(a)(1)(A)(ii).

On October 5, 2020, the Government filed a notice stating that it did not oppose the dismissal of Movant's § 2255 motion. Because it consents to voluntary dismissal of the § 2255 motion, the Government's response may be construed as a stipulation under Fed. R. Civ. 41(a)(1)(A)(ii). Stipulated dismissals under Fed. R. Civ. 41(a)(1)(A)(ii) "require no judicial action or approval and are effective automatically upon filing." Yesh Music v. Lakewood Church, 727 F.3d 356, 362 (5th Cir. 2013); see also SmallBizPros, Inc. v. MacDonald, 618 F. 3d 458, 461-64 (5th Cir. 2010). Movant may therefore be deemed to have voluntarily dismissed this action.

B. Rule 41(a)(2)

The Government specifically invokes Rule 41(a)(2). (See doc. 11.)

Rule 41(a)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provides that after a defendant files either an answer or a motion for summary judgment, except as provided in Rule 41(a)(1), an action may be dismissed on the plaintiff's request only by court order on terms it considers proper. Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(a)(2); In re FEMA Trailer Formaldehyde Products Liability, 628 F.3d 157, 162 (5th Cir. 2010); Hyde v. Hoffmann-La Roche, Inc., 511 F.3d 506, 509 (5th Cir. 2007); Elbaor v. Tripath Imaging, Inc., 279 F.3d 314, 320 (5th Cir. 2002). The decision whether an action should be dismissed under Rule 41(a)(2) is within the sound discretion of the court. Schwarz v. Folloder, 767 F.2d 125, 129 (5th Cir. 1985) (citing La-Tex Supply Co. v. Fruehauf Trailer Division, 444 F.2d 1366, 1368 (5th Cir. 1971)). Notwithstanding this discretion, voluntary dismissals "should be freely granted unless the non-moving party will suffer some plain legal prejudice other than the mere prospect of a second lawsuit." Elbaor, 279 F.3d at 317 (citing Manshack v. Southwestern Elec. Power Co., 915 F.2d 172, 174 (5th Cir. 1990)). The primary consideration is whether the nonmovant would be prejudiced or unfairly affected. Id. at 317-18. Courts have found plain legal prejudice when the plaintiff moves to dismiss the case at a late stage of the proceedings after the parties have exerted significant time and effort, the plaintiff seeks to avoid an imminent adverse ruling, or if dismissal would cause the defendant to be stripped of an otherwise available defense if the case were to be re-filed. See In re FEMA Trailer Formaldehyde Products Liab. Litig., 628 F.3d at 162-63; Hartford Acc. & Indem. Co. v. Costa Lines Cargo Servs., Inc., 903 F.2d 352, 360 (5th Cir. 1990).

Rule 41(a)(2) applies in the context of federal habeas proceedings, and the primary consideration is the same as for non-habeas cases, i.e., whether the non-movant will be prejudiced. See Kramer v. Butler, 845 F.2d 1291, 1294-95 (5th Cir. 1988). In Kramer, the petitioner sought to voluntarily dismiss his habeas petition without prejudice in order to exhaust a new claim, alleging that amendment of his current petition to add the claim would result in a dismissal for failure to exhaust, and that a subsequent petition concerning the new claim would be dismissed as an abuse of the writ. Id. The Fifth Circuit found that the district court did not abuse its discretion in denying the motion on grounds of prejudice to the government where it had filed its answer, an evidentiary hearing had been held, all that remained was for the magistrate judge to issue his findings and recommendation, the new claim was apparent from the face of the state record already before the court, and the petitioner had filed a previous federal habeas petition. Id. at 1295; see also United States v. Lanfranca, 24 F.3d 237, *1 (5th Cir. May 18, 1994) (holding that the district court had not abused its discretion in denying a motion to withdraw a § 2255 motion because it was filed over three months after the § 2255 motion was filed, over one month after the government had responded, and only one day before it was denied by the court).

As noted, the Government does not oppose voluntary dismissal in this case, as required to invoke Rule 41(a)(2). The § 2255 motion was not yet ripe for decision at the time that Movant sought to dismiss it, and no evidentiary hearing had been scheduled. The Government concedes that the only prejudice it faces is “the ‘mere prospect’ of responding in substance to another Section 2255 motion that will, in all likelihood, be time barred.” (See doc. 23.) There is no apparent reason to deny the motion to dismiss. Movant has been duly cautioned that any future § 2255 motion could be time-barred, and he has been given (and apparently declined) an opportunity to withdraw his motion to dismiss. It appears to be his clear intent to dismiss this action, so his motion should be freely granted. See Pichardo-Escoto v. United States, No. 7:16-CV-25, 2017 WL 1629166, at * 2 n. 4 (S.D. Tex. Mar. 7, 2017) (noting that any future § 2255 motion would be time-barred but recommending that the motion to voluntarily dismiss the habeas action be granted because the motion to dismiss reflected the movant’s “clear intentions”), adopting report and recommendation, 2017 WL 1653584 (S.D. Tex. Apr. 29, 2017).

One court has found that there is no duty to warn a movant seeking to voluntarily dismiss a § 2255 motion under Rule 41(a) that a future § 2255 motion may be time-barred. United States v. Tamfu, Nos. 3:99-CR-279-P(01), 3:01-CV-1719-P, 2002 WL 31452410, at *7 (N.D. Tex. Oct. 5, 2002). Nevertheless, Movant is again cautioned that 28 U.S.C. § 2255 “establishes a ‘1-year period of limitation’ within which a federal prisoner may file a motion to vacate, set aside, or correct his sentence under that section.” Dodd v. United States, 545 U.S. 353, 356 (2005).² Any future § 2255

²It states that:

A 1-year period of limitation shall apply to a motion under this section. The limitation period shall run from the latest of –

- (1) the date on which the judgment of conviction becomes final;
- (2) the date on which the impediment to making a motion created by governmental action in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States is removed, if the movant was prevented from making a motion by such motion may be barred by the statute of limitations if he chooses to voluntarily dismiss his current § 2255 motion. The fourteen-day period for filing objections to this recommendation will provide him an additional opportunity to withdraw his motion to dismiss and proceed with his current § 2255 motion.

III. RECOMMENDATION

The motion to voluntarily dismiss the motion to vacate sentence under 28 U.S.C. § 2255 should be GRANTED, unless the movant objects to this recommendation and seeks to proceed with his current § 2255 motion within the fourteen-day objection period, or by some other deadline set by the court.

SO RECOMMENDED on this 6th day of October, 2020.

governmental action;

(3) the date on which the right asserted was initially recognized by the Supreme Court, if that right has been newly recognized by the Supreme Court and made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or

(4) the date on which the facts supporting the claim or claims presented could have been discovered through the exercise of due diligence.

28 U.S.C. § 2255(f).

INSTRUCTIONS FOR SERVICE AND NOTICE OF RIGHT TO APPEAL/OBJECT

A copy of these findings, conclusions and recommendation shall be served on all parties in the manner provided by law. Any party who objects to any part of these findings, conclusions and recommendation must file specific written objections within 14 days after being served with a copy. See 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1); Fed. R. Civ. P. 72(b). In order to be specific, an objection must identify the specific finding or recommendation to which objection is made, state the basis for the objection, and specify the place in the magistrate judge's findings, conclusions and recommendation where the disputed determination is found. An objection that merely incorporates by reference or refers to the briefing before the magistrate judge is not specific. Failure to file specific written objections will bar the aggrieved party from appealing the factual findings and legal conclusions of the magistrate judge that are accepted or adopted by the district court, except upon grounds of plain error. See Douglass v. United Servs. Automobile Ass'n, 79 F.3d 1415, 1417 (5th Cir. 1996).
